

It has been so peaceful without all of these phone calls. I can actually enjoy my meals and family without interruption. If I want something sold to me, I will call them. Even when I asked them to take me off their lists before, they never did. This is the answer we have wanted and now they want to take it away.